DEVELOPING LEADERSHIP SKILLS THROUGHOUT THE ORGANIZATION

FAIRFIELD, CA. – The best measurement of effective leadership is found in the success of an organization’s employees. It is a process built through high performing individuals and leaders who effectively lead, develop, coach and guide others for success.

On Monday, June 16 from 9a.m. to noon, Solano Community Foundation is offering a free workshop entitled “Leadership Development,” an interactive and experiential training designed for Executive Directors and management staff of nonprofit organizations that will define and explain the differences between leaders and managers.

This workshop, a hands-on approach addressing the “how to” of effective leadership, will be held at the Fairfield Civic Center Library, 1150 Kentucky Street in Fairfield.

This is the third workshop in a three-part series presented by Rochelle Sherlock, a trainer with 10 years experience in the field of social service, covering a myriad of topics ranging from communication to strength-based case management and interpersonal effectiveness. She is one of the most requested trainers through the Columbia College Foster Kinship Care Education program and has offered workshops through the U.C. Davis Extension Center for Excellence.

Space is limited to 40 participants and registration is required. To register, call 707-399-2846 or register online at www.solanocf.org.

The Solano Community Foundation was established in 1995, incorporated in 2000, and is dedicated to strengthening the community now and for future generations. It is a 501c(3) organization which provides the opportunity for donors to make a lasting contribution to causes in Solano County that are close to their hearts, and to build capacity in the nonprofit community. Stephanie Wolf, President and CEO of the Solano Community Foundation, can be reached at 707-399-3846.
