

“Ray was a brilliant illustrator, best known for the “Alexander” series of children’s books. Millions of children around the world know his work, and have learned life lessons from recognizing their own emotions in the characters he brought to life. He lives on through his significant body of work and the joy he has brought to so many, including me.” -- Stephanie Wolf